

The Federal Government roads to recovery initiative to inject $1.6 billion into local roads is an investment in the future of your community.

The Public Information Guidelines include a requirement for signs identifying works funded by this initiative. "Signs... must be erected at each end of the works when work begins, in plain view of passing motorists, and be maintained for two years after the project is finished" and "where the work involves...maintenance in several places over a distance, signs should be placed where the work begins and ends."

3 roads to recovery

Signs made using 3M™ Scotchlite™ Reflective Sheeting will be visible 24-hours-a-day to motorists in your community, and will continue to highlight the road improvements you have made in your local area.
